The hody of Rav-Tural David Shamir, who was murdered by three terrorists last January when he was first reported missing, was unearthed in a Moslem cemetery in Rafah over the weekend, the IDF spokesman announced last night.

The Iraqinaws agency had carried reports in July from the Arah Liheration Front, claiming that Shamir had been captured in an ambush in which eight Israeli eoldiers had been killed. This reported clash was flatly denied by the IDF spokesman.

Following a lengthy investigation hy the security services, it has been established that Shamir was stabbed to death by thres terrorists while he was travelling as a passenger in their car. The corporal was last seen on Friday, January 26, climbing into a vehicle at the Avshalom junction in the south of the Gaza Strip. The 20yaar-old soldier was en route home for the weekend. ### Moda'i sees indications of serious recession

TEL AVIV. - The first signs of a downturn in the economy are already apparent in eeveral branches, and the country may be heading for a serious recession, Energy Minister Yltzbak Moda'i warned yesterday evening.
But in an apparent reflection of his ambition to succeed Simha Ehrlich as finance minister, Moda'l said It was "not my job to do anything about the situation." He was speaking at the opening bere of the Energy '80 Exhibition, which is devoted to energy eaving and conservation in the building industry.

Mod'a'l revealed that the price of oil on the Amsterdam spot market rose hy some 14 per cent last week, "for no apparent reason." Because Israel bas some reserves, this rise will not be reflected in the domestic price for two or three months, he

Nevertheless, Moda'l warned that the price of fuel, which at the ino-ment is "relatively low," will continue to riss and can be expected to increase substantially over the next

"The day is coming when fuel will become the major factor both in per-sonal and business budgets," Moda'l said. "At the moment, our eupply la assured but there is no guarantee that this will continue to be the situation."

According to Moda'l. the present inflationary climate is a serious barrier to persuading people to adopt energy-eaving metbods. When the market price of goods and services bears no relation to their real value, then it is difficult to persuade anybody that energy eavings of a few per cent bave any real significance," he said.

The Energy Ministry has estimated, Moda's said, that the present exhibition contains techniques and materials which if applied, could lead to a 10-15 per cent saving in energy consumption in the building industry and further savings when the completed buildings are put into

Dayan to seek assurances

Cabinet backs Sinai scheme 'in principle'

Post Mideast Affairs Editor

The cabinet yesterday granted qualified approval to the controversial plan which Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan concluded with the U.S. and Egypt for monitoring the peace in Sinal.

But despite its emphasis on the need for "amendments and clarification," the cabinet appears in essence to bave endorsed the concept of the interim eupervisory scheme which Dayan put forward. The scheme was an alternative to Jerusalem's demand that the U.S. back a multi-national peace-keeping force immediately.

Cabinet secretary Arye Naor told newsmen that the plan Dayan negotiated with the Americans and Egyptiane last month in Washington bad bean "accepted in principle." But be added that the foreign minister bas been authorized to relay to Washington "proposals for amendments and ciarification." Naor declined to elaborate.

The Jerusalem Post has learned that the preposals were outlined in a five-point document which, according to one informed source, is aimed at reassuring Israel on certain issues related to long-range security surveiliance in Sinal.

The cabinet devoted much of its regular weekly session yesterday to discussing the transitional peace-keeping plan which is likely to re-main in force until the U.S. sets up a multi-national force to monitor eccurity arrangemente in Sinal following Israel's final withdrawal from the peninsula in 1982.

The transitional plan was formulated after the Soviet Union in-sisted on terminating the mandate of the Sinal-based UN Emergency Force (UNEF) as an expression of Moscow's opposition to the U.S.-mediated peace between Egypt and Ierael. The plan ie aimed at guaranteeing peace-keeping in Sinai after Israel completes its interim withdrawal from two-thirds of the peninsula to a line stretching from El-Arish to Ras Mohammed. This is scheduled to take place by the beginning of next year.

The cabinet's acceptance in princi-ple of the transitional monitoring echeme - deepite the objection last week of several ministers and members of the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee - was seen as a gesture to bolster Dayan'e negotiating credibility. Critics had insisted that the scheme be rejected to force the U.S. to meet its commitment to set up an alternative force to UNEF now. A proposal by Transport Minister Halm Landau that Israel hold up its phased pullback from Sinai until the U.S. agreed to eet up a multi national force was rejected vester-day. Energy Minister Yitzhak Moda'i was the only minister who reportedly backed Landsu's proposal.

Legal arguments by Justice Minister Shmuel Tamir were also turned down at the insistence of Interior Minister Yosef Burg. who heid that the discussion ehould be confined to the formulas Dayan had brought with him from Washington.

A majority of ministers yesterday supported the transitional neacekeeping scheme, which involves surveillance coordinated between Israel, Egypt and the U.S. There was no vote. but it was clear that the scheme was not endorsed un animously. Premier Menahem Begin formulated the cabinet decision after a debate during which ministers proposed amendments and clarifica-

The bulk of the suggestions put forward did not touch on the arrangements which Dayan and Defence Minister Ezer Weizman had agreed upon with the Americans and the Egyptians. (The arrangements pertain to the five-kilometre-wide corridor to separate Egypt from Israel for about two and a half years, pending Israel's final pullback to the international frontlers.) The suggestions were understood to have centred on the need for defining the mechanism for monltoring the peace treaty in areas relinquiched by

In this context a number of minieters insieted on a greater American role, particularly in monitoring Egyptian moves on land and sea weet of Sinal. The same ministers sought to make clear to the U.S. that unless it takes concrete steps to establish a multi-national force for eventual Sinai surveillance, Ierael will suspend its final withdrawal from the peninsula's eastern sector in 1982.

The American role in the interim period is expected to be confined to the American peace monitoring perconnel currently etationed in strategic mountain passes in Sinai and to reconnaissance flights over the zones Israel will evacuste by next January.

The 170 Americans, who may be increased to 200 (the celling eet by Congress when the mission was diepatched in 19751, will probably be in-volved mainly in verifying the limitation of Egyptian forces east of the Suez Canal and along Sinai's coast on the Gulf of Suez. But their role may now be expanded - as a result of yeeterday's cabinet decision — to include guaranteeing freedom of navigation through the Straits of Tiran and freedom of movement across Northern Sinai.

Remote-controlled Israel Air Force drone lost over Syria

By DAVID RICHARDSON Jerusalsm Post Reporter

An Israel Air Force remote-piloted reconnaissance drone was lost over Syria yesterday afternoon. The drone was on a photographic mission to verify reports of increased military activity — including the bolstering of air defence capabilities all along the Syrian border.

Air Force commander Aluf David Ivri told military correspondents yesterday evening that the drone was on its way back when contact with it was lost near the Kutzer airbase southeast of the Syrian city of Homs and some 15-20 kilometres east of the Lebanssc border. "It disappeared from the radar screen and we cannot tell exactly what happened," he said. He admitted that increased air activity detected on Israel radar at the time indicated It was possible that the drone had been shot down by Syrian aircraft. He also confirmed that air penetrations of this kind required prior ministerial approval.

In Damascus an army spokesman sald that Syrlan planes bad in-tercepted the plane north of Damascus after It penetrated Syrian airspace at 14:35 local time. All the planes returned eafely to base, the Syrian spokeeman added.

The drone, or Remotely Piloted Vebicle (RPV), was a U.S.-built plane of the Firebee type. It is a small subsonic aircraft weighing about 800 kilograms and has a range of nearly 700 nautical miles. These drones have been in service with the Air Force since before the 1973 Yom Kippur War and several have been lost in the past. Syria would gain no new information if wreckage were found on the ground.

The relatively small size of the drone accounts for a emall radar profile. If the plane was shot down, "the Syrians deserve a compliment as they have dieplayed efficient detection and operational techniques," sald Ivri.

Last month Israeli aircraft downed four Syrian Mig-21s over Lehanon and learely planes also almost engaged an advanced Mig-23 over Lebanese skies recently.

Ivri said that there were indications of a bolstering of forces all through the area, including the possibility of the deployment of a new anti-sircraft missile, and inc. the RPV had been inunched to photograph the area. The RPV is used when a manned flight is con-sidered too dangerous.

The Air Force commander did not feel that the loss of the Firebee was any real intelligence gain for the Syrlans since they have known for some time that the Air Force employs them and details are avallable from the manufacturers.

The blg cities are in a particularly difficult situation because of the massive loans they have been forced to take to maintain services. For instance, Haifa Mayor Arye Gurel reported last week that he was spending IL600m. of his total budget of Il.2.2b. to pay interest on loans. The Jerusalem Municipality has kept affoat only hy borrowing $11m. at high interest. Mayor Teddy Kollek was the first mayor to implement the decision not to take bank loans, by rejecting a further loan of $10m. on August 30 - with the result that the Young Labourites seek new angle on Palestine

First convention opens tomorrow

By SARAH HONIG Post Political Reporter

HOME NEWS

TEL AVIV. - Under the hanner of a more doveish approach to foreign policy and more radical solutions for internal ills, the Lahour Party Young Guard will open its first-ever convention in Tel Aviv tomorrow

The 17- to 35-year-olds comprising the Young Guard intend to criticize their party elders and their past positions. They will demand a new approach to the Palestinian question. One of the proposed resolutions to be suhmitted will be a recommendation for the establishment of a Palestinian state to consist of the present state of Jordan, as well as those territories in Judea. Samaria and Gaza which Israel would vacate under the terms of a peace agree-

The Young Guard resolutions will specify that this would not mean the establishment of a third state in Mandatory Palestine, but the creation of a single entity in parts of the West Bank and Jordan, which is Palestine too.

The Young Guard resolutions also approve of contacts with "moderate Palestinians, who recognize Israel and accept its right to secure. recognized boundaries.

The Young Guard intende to condemn arms shipments to countries such as Nicaragua and conratualate the Sandinista National Liberation Front for overthrowing Party spokesman Yossi Beiling who also heads the Young Guard's political committee which drafted the foreign policy resolutions, said the guard will demand that the Etzion Bloc, the Jordan Valley and greater Jerusalem remain under Israeli sovereignty. He noted that his group's resolutions are "more doveisb than the position of the Labour Party." Young Guard secretary-general Haim Ramon said that his group will act to "return the party to hasic socialist principles, even if that costs us popularity. There is a tendency in Labour today to idealise the days of the Rabin administration and pretend that it was not the party which made mistakes, but the nation had good reasons to remove Labour from power and we must create a new Labour Party." he said.

Among the resolutions will be a call for "greater socio-economic radicalism," the reinstatement of full subeidies and reimposition of foreign currency controls.

The group will come out against admitting the Hapoel Hamizrahi as a Histadrut faction, noting that "this might threaten the traditional Labour majority. We must not lose our hegemony in the Histadrut even If it means an inability to form a government coalition with the National Religious Party."

Some 5,200 people have thus far registered as guard members, 460 of whom are Arabs who will send 26 of the 550 delegates to the convention.

Stowaway on El Al flight to New York brought back

By YORAM BAR

Jerusalem Post Beporter TEL AVIV. - A 23-year-old Israeli, who said he was tired of living in Israel and wanted to go to the U.S. to meet his girlfriend, successfully stowed away aboard an El Al flight to New York last Thursday.

But Amnon Manola's free trip was revealed when the U.S. immigration officials asked to see his passport and learned that be was a stowaway, Manola was immediately turned over to El Al authorities, who returned him the following day to Ben-Gurion Airport.

An oversight on the part of the El Al crew enabled Manola to make the flight, an airline company source said vesterday.

'Singapore plan' suitable for TA traffic—Shifman

By MICHAL YUDELMAN Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - The controversial plan to close the central part of the city to private cars during the morning rush hour - known as the "Singapore Plan" - is suitable for Tel Aviv, Deputy Mayor David Shifman declared yesterday on his return from Singapore where he studied the plan's operation.

Shifman returned more dctsrmined than ever to implement the plan. He said that the structure of Tel Aviv. its business centres, the number of private vchicles and all other relevant factore were perfect for the plan. "Apart from the fact that the majority of Singapore residents are Chinese and here they are Jews, the objective situation is 100 per cent suitable for Tcl Aviv," Shifman stated. If Sblfman convinces the municipal executive and council to support his plan, the city may close Its streets to private care during the morning by mid-1986. The deputy mayor intends to submit his plan at the executive's first session after the holidays.

Shifman said Singapore bas 41 commercial centres larger than anything Tel Aviv has, yet the traffic there is orderly and convenient.

The "Singapore Plan" has come under fire from various sources, including engineers, public transport officials and even the Israeli architect who helped implement the plan in Singapore. The main objection is expected to be voiced by the opposition in the municipality.

Shifman counters with the assurance that the original plan was only a model, and all the adjustments necessary for the special conditions of Tel Aviv will be made

J'lem indivisable as Cairo — Sharon

By YITZHAK OKED

Jerusalem Post Reporter NAHSHON JUNCTION. - "Just as no one would think of dividing Cairo, no one can talk about partitioning Jerusalem," Agriculture Minister Ariei Sharon yesterday told an assembly honouring soldiers who fell during the Yom Kippur War.

Sharon was the main speaker at a ceremony unveiling a memorial in bonour of 31 soldiers of Battallon 407 who were killed in fighting in the Suez Canal area. The monument is in Ya'ar Hameginim, near here. The soldlers honoured belonged to Sharon's division, crossed the Suez during the war and reached a point 101 km from Cairo.

Sharon was answering remarks made last week by the Egyptian Deputy Prime Minister Hassan Tokamy in an interview broadcast on Egyptian TV. Tokamy said that there would be no peace in the Middie East unless "Arah Jerusalem" was restored to its rightful ownere. He said that the Arabs must use their oll and money as weapons to win back Jerusslem from Israel, should negotiations fall.

Sharon said that he was speaking at the site of a battle 30 years ago for the opening of the road to Jerusalem, the capital of Israel. He also said be was sure that the deputy prime minister wasn't speaking for himself. "We are speaking with the Egyptians as equals in an onourable way, because we want to strengthen the ties we have already made," he said.

"But we must make it clear that there are a number of topics which are vital for the survival and the security of Israel," he went on. "At the negotiation table these topics which concern Israel's security will not be discuseed or argusd. No boundary will be drawn between Israel and the Jordan River. Jerusalem will remain the eternal capital of Israel," he declared.

"The Deputy Prime Minister reminds us of Saladdin and oil em-hargoes... He talks about enemies. I wonder who he is talking about since Egypt and Israel have signed a peace agreement. When there is peace there are no enemies," Sharon BEERSHEBA. - Elections for 32 of the 43 seats on the student council at Ben-Gurion University here will have to be beld sgain following the discovery that forged voting cards were used in the elections at the end of the last academic year.

Student Union chairman Nahman Chesner said yesterday that an internal investigation turned up evidence of the counterfeit cards. This finding was confirmed by a criminologist the Student Union consulted in the course of its investigation.

Some eandidates who won seats appealed to the Becrsheba Magistratea Court against the union decision. The fudge ruled that elections must be beld again in all faculties for which there is cvidence of eheating, Chesner reported.
In a separate development, the Tel

Avlv District Court yesterday granted a temporary injunction to delay the election of a new student committee and student union president. The order will remain in effect until both sidee - Labour and Herut - arc able to present their arguments to the court. The Student Council, which is elected in a campus-wide ballot, in turn clects the committee and chairman. For the past few years, the council and union bave been dominated by students of the Herut party. Many of them are members of the strong North Tel Aviv Herut branch which boasts MK Ronnie Milo, a former Student Union chairman himself, as a leading member. Sperling argued that since the council was nearing the end of its term of office, the election of the committee should be delayed until a new council is elected. He also said that, according to the union constitution, elections are not to take place during university vacations.

Palestinians reject Haddad parley

BEIRUT (AP). - The Palestinian terrorist movement yesterday rejected an offer from the commander of the Christian militia in South Lebanon to meet Palestinian and Syrian leaders.

The militia leader, Maj. Sa'ad Haddad, made his offer Saturday in what he said was an attempt to end the fighting in Southern Lebanon. Haddad commands a 10-km.-deep enclave bordering Israel. "Haddad's offer is an Israeli trick, which we reject," a Palestinian spokesman said. "The Israelis are trying to project the situation in Southern Lebanon as one involving Palestinians and Lebaness only. No no. We know that Haddad ts Israel's instrument and mouthpiece in the south. His actions are prompted by Ierael and his equipment comes from Israel."

In announcing his offer over his clandestine Volce of Hope radio sta-tion, Haddad said, "I bereby declare that I'm ready to meet and negotiate, under the UN flag, at any place and without any preco with all sides involved in the Lebanese tragedy."

He added that his offer was addressed to Palestinian and Syrian leadars. "If they are really in-terested in restoring peace and giv-ing Lebanon back to the Lebanese."

Wishes them much rain, little inflation Navon receives 4,000 neighbours

By JUDY SIEGEL Jerusalem Post Reporter

For Yitzhek Navon it was hundreds of handshakes, a dozen speeches and countless waves to his guests. For sach of the 4.000 pilgrims to Beit Hanassi yesterday, it was the first time they had seen the fifth president in person — an event for which they waited in a line that stretched around the block.

For the first Beit Hanassi Succet reception in years, everyone — not only VIPs — was invited, and guests arrived at their own initiative, and not in buses arranged by government or public suthorities. "It's wonderful, so spontaneous," President Navon told The Jerusalem Post during a break, "If felt they came because they wanted

An electronic metal detector was brought to the gate. Police barriers and security men were weil placed, and a couple of coldiers perchad on a nearby roof. The Jerusalem Youth Orchestra played lilting tunes under a canopy. Every 15 minutes, a new batch of 250 or so visitors were ied into the reception hall. The president — often accompanied by his wife Ofira and once by children Nira and Erez - emerged from his office to greet them.

"Where are you from?" asked Navon, quickly limiting the answere to the children when he realized that everyone seemed to want a private conversation with the president. They ranged from Yoesf Sapporta, a metal worker from Holon who was the first on line almost an bour before the door opened, to new immigrants, tourists, hassidim, a mukhtar, women soldiers, veteran residents and bundreds of children. A few even sneaked in a second and third time.

"This bouse doesn't belong to me, but to all of ou," Navon ascerted. "We have thousands of guests in this bouse every month, and we have come to believe that the psople of Israel are a fine nation, much better than the one portrayed in the media, who have done great things in the past and will do so in the future. #### West protest expected

East Berliners see combat copters, new Soviet tanks

EAST BERLIN (Reuter). - East Germany yesterday sent combat helicopters wheeling over Berlin for the first time in its blggest-ever display of military might.

A first flight of a dozen army belicopters was followed by about 20 more which carried payloade of rockets.

The demonstration of aerial strength, watched by Soviet Isader Leonid Brezhney, seemed certain to draw strong protests from the Western World War Two allies in West Berlin as a violation of the city's demilitarized status.

The parade, which marked the 30th anniversary of East Germany's foundation, also included 24 sophisticated Soviet-built T-72 tanks, the eastern bloc's main battle tank. It was the first time tha new T-72s had been demonstrated outside

FOR THE first-time in 32 years, Samuel Mages, who recently arrived in Jeruealem to conduct the Jerusalem Youth Orchestra, did not blow the shofar in a synagogue on Rosh Hashana. In order to be here for the opening of the school year, be had to arrive before the Holydaye. "Yes," he said, "there was an emptiness this year. I felt like Gabriel without his horn." But if the response of those who have met him is any indication, Mages may have changed his role from Gabriel to Pied Piper.

Mages livee in Winnetka, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. Until his retirement recently, he was director of music at New Trier Township High School which is wall known for its outstanding music programme and has a number of orchestras, hands and choral groups.

Mages is in Israel at the invitation of the Jerusalem municipality and will lead the Jerusalem Youth Orchestra for the next four months.

> Gla'e chief concern at the time was getting a conductor for the forthcoming season. The possibility engaging someone of Mages'e calibre was exciting. Perhaps he could be invited to conduct the orchestra as a guest conductor, if not as the permanent conductor. With the full support of the Jerusalem

Municipal Youth Division, an invitation was sent to Mages to come to Jerusaiem to lead the youth orchestra.

Two weeks after Meges received the invitation he decided to accept:
"I couldn't resist the prospect of coming to Jerusalem to work with its children in creeting and performing music." be sald.

THE FIRST rebearsals have gonc well. Mages has been favourably impressed with the ability and spirit of the young musicians. "It's good to be working with such responeive children," bs remarked. Although he speaks little Hebrew

he is now studying with a tutor -Mages has no difficulty relating to the players. During rehearsals they sit quietly, ettentive to his instructions end gestures. He seldom raises

Over 400 boys and giris, ranging in age from 10 to 18 and coming from every section of Jerusalem's population, play in the various bands of the Jerusaiem Youth Orchestra. The best of the young musicians com-prise the first band, which Mages is leading. Rehearsals are held twics a week after school in the old building ai Rehov Hillei and in the Louis and Tillis Alpert Music Centre lo Gai ben Hinnom, recently rehabilitated through a gift by the American musician Herb Alpert.

The Jerusalem Youth Orchestre is reelly misnamed, for it has never hed stringed instruments. Now a string section is being organized. Thanks to "Music for the Children of leraci." over 50 stringed instruments - violins, violas, celios have been brought here, and selected children in Ramot are now receiving violin instruction. Working with Magee in this expaneion of Jerusaism'e youth music programme is Dr. Fanny Kreiman, who retired in Jerusalem 10 years ago after a distinguished career io music education in New York. She has never been busier or more sntbusiastic than sincs Magea's arrival.

Samuel Mages may have feit an empliness when he did not blow the shofar on Rosh Hashana, but that feeling of emptinees will vanieb at 4 p.m. today when he leads the Jerusalem Youth Orchestre at Mayor Teddy Kollek's annual Succot reception for the city in the courtyard of the Migdal David.

THIS FIRST rain doesn't mean the real Israeli winter bas arrived, but it is, without doubt, its herald. Usually the first rain is followed by a rainless interval of three to six weeks before Israel's real rainy season begins. Then, during November, December, January and February the 'blessing rains' (gishmei braha) come and deeply penetrate the soil, reaching the roots of trees and shrubs, watering flaid and garden crops and causing myriads of grasees and wild flower seeds to germinate, thus providing fertile pasturee for cattle and sheep. But the most important role of the rain is to replenish our nearly exhausted reserves of ground water. The brial yore (this year's beavy early rains are unusuai) removes the dust from foliage and freshers the landscape, but the big winter rains determins the prosperity or lack thereof of the agricultural branch of our economy. Sweet peas. Did you include them in the flower beds you prepared in September? If yes, cultivate them with a hand hoe. They like it. The more often, the better. Add some fertilizer . containing . ltms (cuperphosphate), removs weeds and set up next to your sweet peas a fence of chicken wire or some dry tree branches with side choots for these flower plants to climb on. If you didn't sow swest peas last month, you can do so now. Even if you planted some, you may want to sow more in spare cunny spots for an uninterrupted abundant "crop" of beautiful, multi-coloured, fragrant oms for cut flowers during all of

You can buy seeds with mixed colours in one packet or eeparats colours - white. pink, red, purple and blue, or with two-colour combinations. Sweet peas need full sun and a wire fence (or plastic net) to climb on. They reach a beight of 1-14 metres. Dig your ground well (about 25 cm. deep), and add compost. Sow in trenches (2-3. cm. deep) close to the wire fence. Put 2-3 seeds together at intervals of about 15 cm. Thin later and leave pairs only (alwaye the strongest piante). No manure is needed, because this plant producee its own nitrogen in symbiosis with bacteria in the ground. A light feeding with superphosphate three times during the growing period of approximately three months is beneficial. Every year new and biggsr species of this flower appear in seed shops. The most popular kinds are Spencer and Zvolanek, which bear

It's not worthwhile to collect seeds from swset pea plants, because their flowers will not be as large, fragrant and colourful as those of the previous season. Try an experiment and grow recedn odorain, or mignonette (ripha in Hebrew), as a bouse plant. Early October is a good time for tt. In grandmother's day, many people enjoyed flowering pottsd resedu on window stils. The gardeners of Flanders, especially in the vicinity of Ghent, were outstanding in reseda cultivation.

Reseda is native to Israei (and other Mediterranean countries), and you can find it flowering in spring in Jerusalem and many other places in this country.

etrongest ones. In December, when frost and prolonged raine may harm the plants, put the pot indoors on a sump window sill. Thin again and allow only the strongest plant to continue growing. Cut all side sprouts from it without damaging the leaves. Feed every 2 weeks with a teaspoonful of "20-20-20" (general fartilizer). Grow the plant until the single main stem is strong and balf a metre high. Let the side sprouts grow again and later cut their tops to encourage their spread. With good care and a bit of luck, you will not only get nice. fragrant flowers, but you also may be able to enjoy your potted reseda

Pansies for winter blooms. Many blennials, like pansies (they can be also grown like annuals), which we recommended to sow and to prepare in June and July, should now be ready for transplanting to flower beds, baskets or balcony containers. If you haven't grown them yourcelf, you can buy them now from your nurseryman. You can aiso strengthen bought plants by planting them first in pots, tins or plastic bags filled with a mixture of equal parts of red soil, compost, peat and sand and keep them outdoors in half-shade for 2-3 weeks. Then transplant them together with the root ball. This gives you a guarantee of success.

Roses. The second round of roce flowering has started. Now is the time to give your rose bushee a dressing of cow manure (half a bucket per plant) and 2 teaspoonfuls of "20-20-20." Remove, Immediately after blooming, all faded flowers and wildly growing side branchen (hasirim in Hebrew), which you can easily learn to recognize: light green, thin stems with many thorns and no flower buds. Now at rose nurserles (particulars in the "Green Pages"! roses are in full bloom, including many new creations or newly imported species. Maks your choice and order. Planting time is from December until January, but then you will see bare, labelled etems and "lifeless" roots and nothing more. No colour, oo idea of size and form, no fragrance, etc.

The bulbs are bere! In earlier columns we provided you with all the particulars about bulb cultivation. Here are the prices of bulbe this year. Like everything else in Israel bulbs are much more expensive than iast autumn. This list of prices is representative of Tsi Aviv and Jerusalem but prices elsewhere in the country are more or less the same: tulips [different colours], IL3-10 per buib; hyacinthe (yellow, white, pink, red, purple and blue), IL18; daffodils (all kinds of narcissi), IL6-12; Dutch lrises (blue, yellow, white), IL3.50-4; and small bulbs [freesia, anemone, ranuncuius, crocus, etc.), IL3.50

Rosemary (rosmarinus officinalis, or rosmarin in Hebrew). There is etill time to grow cuttings in ver-miculite or sandy soil of this popular evergreen shrub to be transplanted later to the garden or flower pots or balcony containers. If your budget ie limited and you want a cheap, quickgrowing, evergreen, aromatic plant to beautify your garden or balcony, rosemary should be your choice. A flower pot, a barrel, a basket or whatever can be your container. Take "free of charge" soil from a field. A rosemary cutting 15-25 cm. long is all you need for a nearly cost-free decorative plant. Rosemary needs light, regular watering and nothing else. It will give you pale lilac flowers to enjoy in spring and summer, as well as fragrant leaves. which can be used for flower decorations or as a kitchen herb. Rosemary has another advantage, important for gardeners in Israel. It is a heat and drought resistant perennial, which needs only occasional watering once it is wellestablished. Too much water may result in rust (black spots at the tops) and mildew.

ONE OF THE many problems not deait with in the programme was the lack of instruction in the use of weapons. Most people buy guns for their "looke," their formidsble appearance, rather than their usefulness. Anything above 9mm. calibre requires a lot of practice.
There are next to no chooting ranges available, other than for smallcalibre (.22) weepons. One colution is something along the linee of a Baretta'a exchangeable barrel and magazioe-ciip, so that it can be used for etandard ammunition as well as .22 target practice. Better still - a .22 le in the first place. These are usually accurate little weapons, produce an impressive amount of noise and will, with a hollow-point bullet, be as effective as a weapon of much larger calibre.

With these small-calibre weapons, people can let off steam at the shooting range and learn what it's all about. Anyone not familiar with guns ing in a request for a contlogent fee of less than 50 per cent. What the appellant did object to was the fact that a regusst for 50 per cent of the amount of the promissory note was tantamount to making a partner of a client, contrary to section 58 of the Chamber of Advocates Law, and this was unbecoming the prohibited advocates from practising their profession in partnership with non-advocatee. Justice Kahn heid that there was no cause for concluding that the law in Israel allowed an advocate to fix a fee dependent on the outcome of the case up to a certain percentage only because of the partnership prohibition. As for the contention that it would make a had impression on the public if a fee of 50 per cent of the proceeds of a case was fixed — as this might seem to establish a partnership between advocate and client — this could apply equally to the fixing of a fee of IL3,000 for collection of a IL6,000 bill, or to the fixing, for example, of a fee of one-third of the amount collected on a bill — which the appellant had not found objectionable. It is quite possible, concluded

Justice Kahn, that there might be an aesthetic objection to the manner in which the respondent had fixed his fee, but there was certainly nothing in it to warrant finding him guilty of unprofessional conduct. If there were any fear that the fixing of a contingent fee as high as 50 per cent of the eum an advocate succeeds in winning for hie client might prejudice the dignity of the profession, he added, then the proper way of preventing any such danger would be by fixing a maximum percentage by law, as was done, for example, in the Road Accident Victims (Compensation) Law. But as iong as no such clear-cut provision had been introduced into the Chamber of Advocates Law, there was no justification for finding an advocate guilty of unprofessional conduct if he fixed a contingent fee of 50 per cent of the successful outcome of a case.

For once the legislature had elected to validate contingeot fees for non-criminal cases. It was not the businese of the courts to question their ethica (see also C.A. 561/62, P.D. 17/16181 and thus create a kind of "grey" ares between what is permissible and what is prohibited. Furthermore, he added, while it might be true that in every cootingent fee, irrespective of whether it is of a high or low percentage, there is an element of partnership, nevertheless, as the contingent fee makes possible the enforcement of legitimate claims which otherwise might be abendoned, and as even in the absence of any contingent agreement there is a kind of elient agreement hetween advocates and their clients that the former will refrain from claiming their full fee if they lose their cases, the social advantage seeme clearly on the side of the contingent fee.

THE CONCERT in Jerusaiem (Blnyenei Ha'ooma, October 6) eesmed to prove that our reservations about moving the Chamber Orchestra to this large hall were correct. The sonorities of the strings do not carry sufficiently to give the acouatical impression of an orchestra, and chamber music gets lost in these surroundings.

Though the mainly young audience a very commendable reflection on this series — behaved well, sitting quietly to catch the music coming from the stage, latecomers wandering around in search of seats ware an irritation. Concerts should start on time, and latecomers should be made to wait until a work being played is finished.

The Ravei was not performed since the horn soloist became ill suddenly. As for the rest, we must agree with our colleague in Tsl Aviv: Budolf Barchai is an excellent taskmaster for training his strings to play with precision and unanimity, hut most of the time he seemed at a loss musically.

Increases in the discount rate are almed at curbing the rapid rise in the money supply, hyperactive borrowing and excessive epeculation in financial and commodity markets. particularly gold. ...

The increase to 12 per cent came on a unanimous hoard vote, a dramatic shift from two weeks ago, when the board split 4-8 in its move to boost the discount rate from 10.5 to 11 per cent.

Volcker sald the change of attitude on the board is a direct reaction to the disappointing inflation news and the galloping price of gold and other commodities. Also, he said, "we havs had unsettlement in the financlal markets."

The actions, coming just two days after the end of the International Monetary Fund's meeting in Belgrade is the most broadly based strategy taken since last November. At that time, President Carter announced a series of emergency actions to halt a steep plunge in the value of the dollar. Those actions included a large increase in gold sales by the government and, like Satur dsy's snnouncoment, a 1 per cent hike in the discount rate, putting it then at 9.5 per cent.

The story of gold

By YA'ACOV FRIEDLER

Jerusaiem Post Reporter HAIFA. - Now that the latest rush of gold fever appears to he suhsiding, we may be able to stay away from the exchange long enough to consider just why gold is eo highly valued by the buman race.

The simple fact is that sithough an estimated 100,000 tons of the brilliant yellow metai have been mloed through history, 70 per cent of it in the 20th century aione, humanity would survive without great hardship, If there was no gold.

This is so because gold has few practical or vital purposes. When it is not hoarded, it is used in the following ways: 70 per cent for the production of jewelry; 5 per cent for dental work; 5 per cent for industry, mainly in electronics, for coating electrical connections. The remaining 20 per cent goes into coins and

It is thus obvious that gold is not essential to our survival.

Yet it has been valued by man since prehistoric times and in the Old Testament It was st one time preferred to God himself by the Children of Israel, who made themselves a Golden Calf. Prehistoric man already knew about gold and probably craved its possession, though he could not very wail have used it until the art of melting was discovered in the Bronze Age.

It may well be that over the millennis this appreciation of gold has become locked into our genes, so that while most of us are not horn with the proverblal sllver spoon in our mouths, we are born with a love for gold.

One encyclopedia sttributes the value of gold mainly to the fact that it is scarce, but also to its beauty, softness, resistance to chemicale which prevents it from tarnishing. the only metal with this quality. In addition it is "virtually indestruc-

Because of its brilliant appearance and its occurrence in the nstive state, gold was one one of the first metals to attract the attention of

The earliest known gold objects, jewelry and cups, discovered by archeologists at Ur in Mesopotamla, date hack to 3500 B.C.E. Egyptian tombs of roughly the same period also contained gold articles.

hammered into "goldleaf" only one hundred thousaodth of a millimetre thin, which makes it quite transparent. It is also most ductile and can be drawn into gold wire so thin that a two-mlie long etrand will welgh only one single gram. Gold has its own weight, the troy ounce, which at 31.1035 grams is ahout three grams heavier than the ordinary ounce used for baser materials. The name troy probably comes from a French city, which used to he the elte of a famous fair where the weight seems to have been

The purity of gold is measured in carsts. Each carat represents 1/24tb part of the whole, so that 24 carat gold is pure. Gold is widely made into an alloy, mainly with sliver and copper, and most jewelry is made of 14 carat gold, that is about 58 per cent pure.

Finally we must consider the names, like Goldberg, 'Gold'' Goldblatt, Goldstein, etc., which are quite common among Western Jews. Goldberg appears to have originated in an small East German town by the name of Goidberg, which was thus named beacause at one time it used to operate a small gold mine. It is likely that some Jewisb emigrants from that city took the name with them. Goldberg was ceded to Poland in 1946 and the town of 5,000 is now known as Siotoryja.

Goldblatt simply means 'Goidleaf' and was probably a name first assumed by a Jewish goldsmith. Goldsmith and its many variations, is quite a common Jewish name in lts own right. Today, with so much gold flowing into the coffers of the oil cheiks in return for their easily gotten 'black gold", their turn has come for assuming "gold" names. They should hurry, before their black gold runs out, leaving them stranded with only the memory and their last few million troy ounces.

Solel Boneh had IL1.1b. profit in first six months of the year

By JOSEPH MORGENSTERN Jerusalem Post Finance Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Soiel Boneh for the first six months of 1979 ebowed IL7.9b. income from operations. compared with IL10.8b. for all of 1978. For the period under review gross profits stood at IL1.5b., or 19.2 er cent of income.

Management reports that gross profits were greatly increased by marked progress in the execution of iocal projects started in the eccond half of 1978. In spite of the improvement most of the gain was wiped out by the rise in the cost of financing iocal projects. The cost of iocal financing came to 1.3 per cent of income, a major increase over last for the rest of the calendar year is The cost of management remained almost unchanged from that of 1978. The company, at mid year, showed profits from operatione of ILA.1b... compared with ILL.2b. for all of 1978.

The 34 per cent devaluation of the Israel pound during the first ein months of the year helped income from overseas operations, when compared with the 46 per cent devaluation for all of 1978.

Solel Boneh, the largest building company in the country, is currently involved in projects related to the redeployment of defence forces in

Industrial investments ahead 5%

Jerusalem Post Reporter TEL AVIV. - Despite the worsening conditions for granting loans to industry, investments this year are running ahead about five per cent in real terms of those of 1978, Dr. Moshe Mandelbaum, acting board chairman of the Industrial Development Bank, stated yesterday.

He sald that during the first six months of 1979 some ILSb. bad been invested, and by the end of the year. some IL20b. would be invested. Mandelbaum credited the slight Increase in investments as being due to several causes: the conditions of the loans had not been worsened; the new tax structure on raw materials had allowed companies to increase their internal reserves and these funds were flowing into investments: it was possible to rent equipment rather than buy it, eaving laying out considerable sums. In addition, lines of credit in foreign currency bad been tapped, sales on the local market bad been good, partially due to the purchases made for the new deployment in the Negev, and finally, industrial exports had increased by 28 per cent.

Sharon wine grapes in before rain

ZICHRON YA'ACOV. - This year's harvest of wine grapes in the Sharon area was completed last Thursday. just ahead of the heavy rains.

Amram Surasky, manager of the Carmel Mizrahi wine celiar, sald that 20,100 tons of grapes were delivered to the cellar by the growers this year - some e per cent less than last year'e bumper crop of

He eald be believes that the lighter

vield was due to the sparse rainfall. But because of the lower yield. Surasky said, the grapes had been bealthier and had a higher sugar content, making up in quality for the drop in quantity.

The growers were pald a basic IL6,100 per ton of grapes with a standard minimum sugar content of 18 per cent. As most of the grapes exceeded the standard, the growers received considerably more for them.

Linked bonds rise on rumour of subsidy cuts

TEL AVIV. - Expectations that Finance Munister Simha Ehrlich, who is dus to return from a trip abroad tomorrow, will bring with him an emergency economic programms which will include further subsidy cuts, were chough to cause a goodly damand for indexinked bonds here yesterday. With the exeption of the "double-option" linked bonds, which did not change materially, all other groups of index-linked bonds moved ahead smartly, with gains ranging from 1 to 2.5 per cent. Trading turnover for all bonds totalled

... The shares of etrike bound Bank Leumi did not change as an offer of H.3.1m. was absorbed at 462.

The share market was not appreciably affected by either the prospects of further subsidy cuts or by the temporary closure of Bank Leumi. Financials were slightly ahead, while insurance issues enjoyed a good asssion. With the exception of land development and real estate sharee, which moved lower, other sectors of share trading put in a mixed serformance. IDB shares ware the star of the commerrial banking group, with a four-point gain to 341. Hapoalim and General Bank came hrough with two-point gains, while Mizrahi and FIEI ware one point winners. Union

Cairo's other voice

ARAB SPOKESMEN are adept at making contradictory policy statements, which they claim to he perfectly consistent.

Sometimes there is a logical explanation for such equivocation, as when Dr. Butros Ghali tries to show the more militant Middle East governments that Egypt will not stand any nonsense from the Begin administration.

But Mohammed Hassan el-Tohami'a aggressive pronouncement over Cairo TV last week goes too far. Speaking as his country's Deputy Prime Minister, he told his viewers that if hia government cannot prise Jerusalem away hy negotiation, then the Araba must use their oil and weapons to tear that city ("holy to 800 million Arabs and Moslems"1 out of the Iaraell grasp by Israel is in the process of negotiating with the Egyptians the fulfilment of a treaty signed by three heads of government — Sadat, Carter and Begin. President Sadat observed during his recent visit to Haifa that there were difficulties to overcome but that he believed the talks would reach a successful conclusion.

While these discussions go on. Israel ia surrendering large hunks of territory. The withdrawal from Sinal is an act of trust on her part. It has no justification if Tohami's threats are meant to be taken seriously.

Israel has undertaken great risks because it believes that Egypt ia embarked on a process of genuine negotiation. To pose Cairo's most extremist demand in the form of a bloodthirsty ultimatum does not accord with the spirit of Camp David.

We have been listening to the sage addresses of Anwar Sadat rather than to the imprecations of his advisers. Are we being too complacent? Do these advisers speak for their chief as well?

Facing Gush Emunim

GUSH EMUNIM wants more land for seven of their settlements in Samaria, and the Cahinet is to decide next Sunday whether or not to allow the expropriation of private Arab land for the pur-

Premier Begin is said to be sympathetic to "the plight of the land-hungry villages." He said so to a couple of NRP visitors. Education Minister Hammer and party faction chief Ben-Meir, who had come to plead with him on behalf of their fellows in True, Mr. Begin has publicly act his face against the taking of Arab land for settlement in the territories. But as another NRP stalwart, the somewhat less hardlining Interior Minister Burg, has put it, while the principle is sound exceptions to it must be admitted, as to every principle. In the present case the edge of the exception may presumably be blunted by aeeing to it that as little as possible of the Arab land due to be requisitioned is actually under cultivation. This may comfort Mr. Begin, but It won't begin to aatisfy Gush Emunim. Their interest lies in an altogether different direction.

The real aim of the Gush (and of its sundry supporters) is to force upon Mr. Begin a reaffirmation of an older principle which he, as leader of the Opposition, used to uphold: namely, the inallenable right of Jews to unrestricted settlement in Judea and

This is now conceded by the Premier to be impossible, because it would plainly run counter to the basic concept of the Camp David accords. That is why official policy has opted for selective settlement, justified for attempted to be justified) on security grounds, and subject to the Supreme Court's interpretation of Israel's responsibilities as an occupying power under the Hague Convention.

Little wonder that this policy is wholly anathema to Gush Emunim. What they are after is not viable Jewish settlements in Judea and Samaria (their village there will never amount to much of anything), but an ineradicable Jewisb presence there, that will proclaim that part of the Land as forever Israel's.

The demand for more land for seven aettlements is only the entering wedge of their strategy: they are already talking of more than twice that number. In fact they want the Cabinet to approve the outright taking, not as an occupier but as a rightful sovereign, of 150,000 dunams of private Arab land in the heart of Samaria as a guarantee of settlement in the event that the autonomy is actually set up.

If such a move works to prevent the autonomy from being set up, and even resulta in the burying of the Camp David accords, they will not be among the mourners.

Is the Cabinet so foolish as to help their destructive cause? This we will learn next Sunday.

THE OPPOSING ANTI-ZIONISTS

MIKHAIL AGURSKY sees a stake for Israel in the internal Soviet debate between the ruling 'internationalists' and the opposing 'isolationists,' whose time may yet come.

THE POLICY of turning the USSR into a unified nation has been pursued hy the ideologically oriented ruling group despite diminishing support for it in all corners of the country. Unfortunately, as often happens in history, this group decided to assign a key role in achieving this objective to the assimilated Jewish intelligentsia, since they seemed to be one of the few groups that could still be relied on to support the hankrupt policy of national integration as it would end their alienation in Sovlet soclety.

Therefore as Sovict intervention in the Middle East intensified - which already provoked anti-Zionist hysteria in the Soviet Union — the ruling group had to intensify even more its anti-Zionist policy to cover up the use of Jews for internal purposes. Thus there was another stimulus for Soviet anti-Zionism, and it was the ruling group's new contribution in its struggle against Russian opposition to integration.

A typical Jewish puppet providing this service for the ruling group is Alexander Chakovsky, editor-in-chief of "Literaturnaya Gazeta," now the most slanderous anti-Zionist publication, whose ohvious objective to pursue the idea of "Sovlet" culture versus "Russian" culture.
Opposing forces are concentrated around such Russlan-orientated magazines as ''Nash Sovremennik,''

''Molodaya Gvardiya'' and newspapers like "Sovetskays Rossiya." The literary polemics between the two trends are an expression of a tug-of-war inside the for further expansion.
Ironically, opposition to further attempts to pursue unrealistic objectives at Russian expense, opposition against Pax Sovietica vis-a-vis the Russlan world, which is being sacrificed for that, forced Russlan nstionalists to battle what they also cailed "Zionism." But a deeper look will show that the meaning of "Zionism" for the two trends is different. For the ruling ideologically orlented group, "Zionism" means Israel and Zionist-oriented Jews inside and outside the USSR. Any being completely integrated is also always considered as Zionism. For the Russian opposition, however, Zionism is first of all an attempt hy the Jews to dominate the Russians, to impose "cosmopolitan" patterns on Russlan life. Zionism is everything that could endanger the Russian (and not Soviet!) position, to suppress Russian national self-expression.

attempt to prevent Soviet Jews from Õoe can see this even in such rabid anti-Semites iike novelist Ivan Shevtcov or propagandist Valery Emelyanov, who beiong to the most extreme wing of the Russian opposi-tion. Shevtcov for example speaks about Zionism controlling Soviet culture, mass media and even infiltrating into political life. One can understand this wild accusation only by taking into consideration the amhiguity in the notion "Zionlsm."

"The favourite hohhy-horse of Zionist propaganda." claims Emelyanov who preaches the existence of the Jewish-Masonic plot. "is an attempt to identify the Communist struggle against Zionism with the struggle against the State of Israel itself...The USSR opposes not Israel, hut the militarist, anti-Sovist and anti-national policy of its Zionist government towards the Israeli nation itself."

This statement must be Interpreted. In the Soviet tug-of-war, Emelyanov simply dellvers a message to his fellow nationalists (the statement is taken from 'Nash Sovremennik") that Israei is not the real target of his activity, but only Jewish intervention Into Russian af-

Thus supporters of the ruling group, including Jews, link their anti-Zionist activity to Israel. Their opponents are inclined to undo this connection. For them, Israei and Zionism are not synonymous.

STILL Shevtcov and Emelyanov are marginal figures. Behind them one can find important forces ready to re-establish Stalin's tolerant attitude towards Israel coupled with strong internal anti-Jewishness and eventually rejection of integrating Jews into Russian society and encouraging their exodus from Russla, since this option now exists.

The Jewish question is not the main Russian problem as such, hut exactly as was the case before the Revolution, this question is a symptom of other Soviet political problems. It is a criterion for judg-ing the stability of the Soviet multinational empire. Since the Jewish intelligentsia are considered by the Russian opposition to he a stronghold of the bateful Soviet integration, it would be best to get it

The Russian opposition is becoming stronger and stronger. It controls many important positions. It also seems clear it is supported by the army, by some branches of the party apparatus, by local party organizations in Russia and by the part of the KGB. The ruling group bas already lost total control over literary politics, and Chakovsky is its rearguard. The recent awarding of state prizes to such outspoken critics of the Soviet system as Victor Astafiev and Valentin Rasputin, who went much further than Solzhenitsyn in the early '60s, speaks for itself. A deputy chairman of the KGB, Semion Zvigun, who belongs to the Brezhnev group, recently gave a list of "hest" Soviet writers which amounted to official approval. He didn't mention Rasputin and Astafiev, in spite of their prizes. At the same time he praised Chakovaky. It is still difficult to speak in specific terms about the struggle for the succession to the Soviet leadership after Brezhnev. Without doubt though, the Russian opposition in the Soviet leadership now bas very good chances of improving its position as only a tolerated trend. If it should win, there is a possibility of a mass Jewish exodus from the USSR, with an eventual expulsion of the Jewish Intelligentsis from Soviet cultural life, as bappened in Poland. One could then also expect a more moderate policy towards Israel. This should be welcomed hy Israel. I personaliy see no reason why Israel should sacrifice its vital interests out of concern for the fate of such people. as Chakovsky or Soiodar, who are hated both by Russlans and Jews. Alexander Solzhenitsyn, who bas been the main spokesman of the Russian opposition a broad aince 1973, ex-pressed his sympathy towards Israel vis-a-vis his aggressive attitude towards a deracinated Jewish in-telligentsia hoth in Russia and as an emigre movement. Thoughtiess, or maybe even ili-intended, people called him an anti-Semite for this. It is a hlg mistake, and a serious one, sloce to Solzhenitsyn this attitude is a touchstone for future policy. One must take into consideration the fact that recently Solzhenitsyn hinted that he has support inside the Soviet leadership.

Orientation on the Russian nationalist forces in the USSR may he a real political alternative for Israel, even now, and there are, I think, strong forces in the Soviet political system that could appreciate such an approach.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT AMERICAN ALIYA

To the Editor of The Jerusolem Post

READERS' LETTERS

Sir, - Your editorial of September 12 urging Jews of the Diaspora "to take the reins out of the lnept hands that have been holding them for too long... for the health of the idea of allya and of the ollm invoived" received a loud "hurrah!" from the Volunteers for Clevelanders In

We have long urged the American Jewish Community to accept responsibility for our olim who go to Israel with great hope and often return in great despair.

A year ago, I joined a group of American aliya leaders, hesded by Mrs. Pamela Erdfarb of New York, who prepared and sent to all major American-Jewish organizations a plan designed to transfer responsibility for American aliya to the American-Jewish community.

The plan calls for the creation of a new American allya framework consisting of a national allya board and offices in major cities throughout the U.S. This organization would work closely with its counterpart office in Israel to establish American colonies" that would incorporate all that is hest in American life with all that is desirable in Israei. The colonies would serve as an incuhator for new American olim who would have an opportunity to hrldge the wide gap that exists between the

There would be a one-stop of-fice staffed by Americans, dealing with employment, housing, mortgages, loans and counselling. Businesses in the colonies would be owned and operated by Americans, alded by investors from local American communitles. There would be summer youth camps, an American University, retraining courses in English, American retirees volunteering their expertise and even a "landsman" headquarters for each American city.

This plan would give American

from men.

Haifa.

Sir, - Your issue of September 27 contains two illuminating examples of Orthodox religious 'logic' relating to women.

In his article, "A formula for national suicide," Professor Paul Eidelherg objects to the law permitting abortion hecause, so he claims, it will reduce the Jewish hirth rate and hecause, so he pronounces, the law is not intended to promote the common good. No facts are advanced to support either of these ipse dixit declarations. Will the number of legal abortions by competent physicians in hospitals exceed the number of illegal abortions if the law is changed? How many women will die or be rendered sterile by quack abortionists worklng on kitchen tables instead of heing saved to have children later when they want them? Is Israel henefited forcing women, often unmarried, to have children they don't want and cannot afford? Will such unwanted and neglected children grow up to he assets to the state or liabilities? Such an important subject really deserves a rational discussion.

In his letter on mixed pews in the same issue, Rahhi Aaron Rakeffet-Rothkoff justifies banning Conservative and Reform synagogues hecause of their mixed seating. As his authority for this sweeping interdict he cites Exodus 15:1 for the proposition that at the Jewish people's very first public worship service, namely the one thanking God for the safe crossing of the Red Sea, men and women worshipped separately. "When the men com-pleted their song;" says Rabbl Rakeffet-Rothkoff, Mirlam led the women out to dance.

Unfortunately for the good rabbl's argument, Exodus 15:1 is exactly to the contrary. The Hebrew text does copy of our programme hy writing to SBIRLEY GOODMAN American and Israell cultures. Chairman Volunteers for New arrivals would forgo Absorp-tion Centres for private apartments, Clevelanders in Israel 1414 S. Green Road 309 Cleveland, Ohlo. READ POST AND
